TO-MORROW MIGHT. CHRISTMAS EVE. There will be Great Expectations abroad to-morrow night. For that will be Christmas Eve. Expectations will there be of joy over gifts to be received, of blessed happiness over gifts to be given. Not alone in the houses of the wealthy THE EVENTER WORLD will bright hopes dwell. Not there alone will bright dreams come. Thanks to the thoughtful and generous ones who have contributed to THE EVENING WORLD'S Christmas-Tree Fund there is to be a happy eve of anticipation for the children of the very poor, and it will be followed by a morning of realization. Are you who read these lines one of those who have beiped build up the Fund? If you must reply that you are not, snewer at the same time that you will, however, become one. Get in line within the narrow time still left. Your contribution to-day or to-morrow will yet help to breed Christmas smiles on wan little faces, Christmas cheer in longing little hearts. What you do will add also to your own store of pleasure.
